HOW TO MEASURE

PROPER PREPARATION

Ask somebody to help you with the measure.

Measure the body, not a piece of clothing.

Enter your body measurements, such as a query.

Please check all details carefully before you order full inquiry (an exchange of bespoke suit is excluded)

Measure the height

Stand without shoes upright on a wall. Put a book horizontally on the Head and let you highlight the lower edge of the wall. Measure from the floor to the mark for your height.

A: Neck size

Measure around the fullest part (usually below the larynx). The tape is directly on the skin around the neck. Include a forefinger while reading. The tape should be moveable easy back and fourth.

B: Chest size

Measure under the armpit around the fullest part of the breast. Stand upright and extend your arms to the side. Breathe neither particularly strong nor out.

C: Waist size

Measure around the fullest part of the belly. Do not retract your belly. Include a forefinger while reading. The tape should still be moveable easy back and fourth, but not be sag. Make sure that the tape does not ride up.

D: Hip size

Measure around the fullest part of the buttocks (highest elevation of the buttocks in profile) the circumference. The tape can still be easily reciprocate, but does not sag. Watch out that the tape does not slip high.

E: Arm length

Measure with slightly angled arm. Measure the outside along from the end of the shoulder bone above the elbow to Wrist. If there is a wide divergence between the arm lengths right / left, please include both dimensions.

F: Back length

Measure from the little protruding cervical vertebra along the center of the back to the bottom edge of the waistband.

G: Side length

Measure from the waistband over the hip to the sole of foot.

H: Thigh circumference

Place the measuring tape at the fullest point of the thigh directly under the butt and measure the circumference.

I: Knickerbockers length

To determine the knickerbockers for classical fencing pants, you have to measure below the kneecap.
